

TOP CHROME EXTENSIONS FOR DEVELOPERS

MUKUL RAJPOOT

BROWSERSTACK

It is widely used and popular among web developers, allowing them to test work for responsiveness. You can use this Chrome extension to test your website on various browsers and check whether it works well or not.

MUKUL RAJPOOT

COLORZILLA

ColorZilla is a great Chrome Extension launched eight years ago and is a popular color picker for developers. If you're a web developer looking for the best color picker, then the Chrome extension offers it all.

MUKUL RAJPOOT

CSSPEEPER

Another excellent and widely used Chrome extension for web developers is the CSSPeeper extension, which allows you to quickly extract CSS code nested in a web page.

MUKUL RAJPOOT

GHOSTERY

As we all know, Chrome extensions are widely used and popular among web developers for many things. But when it comes to privacy, it is not a good fit. And to fulfill that requirement, it provides you with an extension named Ghostery that will help you with it.

MUKUL RAJPOOT

GOFULLPAGE

Using the GoFullPage Screen Capture Chrome browser extensions, developers can take a screenshot of the work and send it to the team lead for approval.

MUKUL
RAJPOOT

LAMBDA TEST

Web developers will find this Chrome extension useful, allowing them to quickly take a screenshot of an entire web page across various mobile and desktop browsers. It supports accelerating cross-browser compatibility tests of the website pages.

MUKUL
RAJPOOT

LIGHTHOUSE

Lighthouse is an effective Chrome extension that helps web developers to improve the quality of web pages and make them more accurate. It is an open-source Chrome extension that allows developers to analyze and resolve SEO issues.

MUKUL RAJPOOT

WAPPALYZER

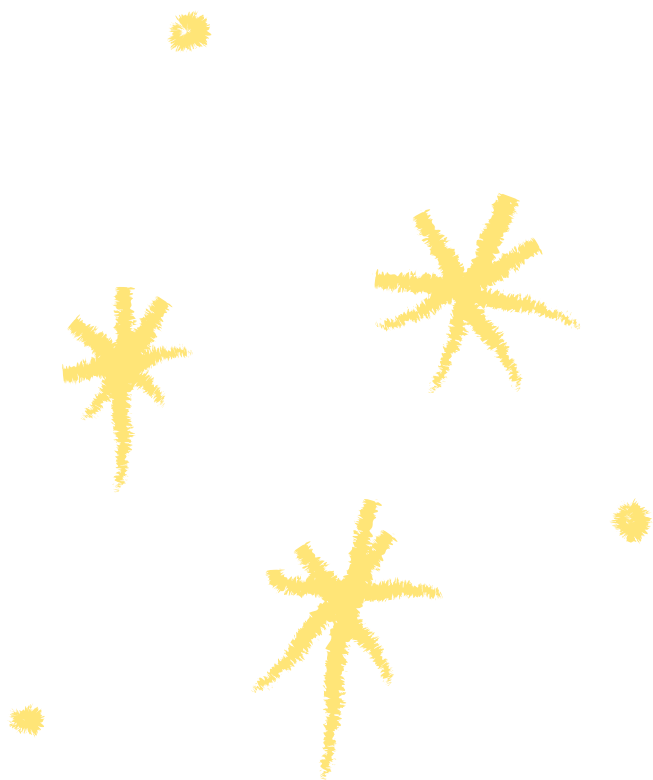

Wappalyzer is a Chrome extension created in 2009 by Elbert Alias. It is an open-source and cross-platform browser extension that reveals the technologies used on a particular website.

MUKUL RAJPOOT

THANKYOU

MUKUL RAJPOOT

